LaGRANGE COUNTY, INDIANA, IN THE AMERICAN CIVIL WAR, 1861 – 1865

For thirty prosperous years LaGrange County, Indiana developed in population and resources without knowing the spirit of war.

When the first squad of volunteers assembled in 1861, there was but one man in the community with sufficient military knowledge to give commands for the simplest maneuvers. He was William B. Bingham, who had served in the ranks of an Ohio regiment in the Mexican War.

On April 14, 1861, at 4:30 AM, the Civil War began with the bombardment of Fort Sumpter, three-quarters of a mile off the coast of South Carolina.

On April 15, 1861, President Lincoln called for 75,000 militia. The first paper published in LaGrange after this called for a public meeting at the court house. The court house was filled to capacity. John Kromer, a soldier of 1812, presided. Nathan P. Osborn and Samuel Sprague acted as vice-presidents and C. O. Myers and A. B. Kennedy as secretaries. The committee on resolutions were A. S. Case, Harley Crocker, Dr. F. P. Griffith, Dr. J. H. Rerick, Thomas J. Skeer, and Alexander B, Kennedy. The resolutions reported were unanimously adopted, and were as follows:

Whereas, we deplore the circumstances which have inaugurated civil war and brought the people of a portion of the South in conflict with the general government of the United States; therefore.

Resolved, that it is the duty of all patriotic citizens, irrespective of party names and distinctions, ignoring, for the present, all past dissentions and party bitterness, to unite as one people, in support of the Government of the United States.

Resolved, that we are unalterably attached to the Government of the United States and will yield to it an ardent and firm support against all enemies; pledging to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

John H. Rerick drew from his pocket an enlistment paper already prepared, which was read, approved, and enlistment at once commenced. William Cummings, William Selby, and John Kromer were appointed a committee for soliciting contributions for the families of those who should enlist.

This was the first war meeting ever held in the county. Others quickly followed – one at Lima on the 23rd, addressed by Hon. J. B. Rowe, Revs. Farrand and Cary, and another at Wolcottville on the same day, presided over by A. J. Atwood, with L. L. Wildman, as secretary, and Dr. Martin, O. B. Taylor, and Henry Youngs as committee on resolutions. These demanded a prompt and vigorous execution of the Federal laws, the retaking of forts, arsenals, and other public property seized by the Rebels, and that the insult to the United States by the so-called Confederacy in attacking Fort Sumpter was one that should be redressed, if it was necessary to use the entire military strength of the American people. At these meetings, volunteers were added to the list and contributions made for their families. On May 1, a meeting was held at South Milford, presided over by John Bartlett, with R. Smith as secretary. It was addressed by Francis Henry and George Rowe. The committee on resolutions were Francis Henry, E. Stockwell, Dr. J. Dancer, L. Blackman, and George Bartlett. The resolutions reported and adopted were as follows: (It shows the different shades of feeling at the time.)

Resolved, that we will sustain the constitution of the United States of America, and uphold the authorities there of in sustaining the laws and protecting the flag of our country from our enemies, both North and South.

Resolved, that we have no sympathy with the secessionists of the South, nor the abolitionists of the North, and that we hold them responsible for the present distracted condition of the country.

Resolved, that we recommend every good citizen to consider calmly and dispassionately our present condition, and that we will hail with joy an early and honorable peace, and if peace cannot be brought about, that we prosecute the war with the utmost vigor to a final end.

The attention of the people was directed to the enlistment. The paper was kept by Dr. J. H. Rerick at Betts & Rericks Drug Store, and as fast as men made up their minds to enlist, and could arrange their business, they came in, signed the paper, and went into the ranks for drill. Our first military organization assumed the belligerent cognomen of the "LaGrange Tigers." The following is a copy of the obligation to which the volunteers, 102 in number, put their signatures:

LaGrange, Ind., April 1861.

The undersigned hereby agree to organize themselves into a volunteer military company, in accordance with the statutes of the State of Indiana, and to be at the service and command of the governor thereof, whenever in his opinion the exigencies of the country demand, for the term of three months from date of reception for duty. They also agree, when the requisite number (84) of signatures for a company have been obtained, to meet, elect their officers, and report for service.

At this enlistment and preparation for the field had been done without any definite arrangement or order from the state authorities. Not until the 14th of May did the company receive any orders. The company was en route in an hour or two for Sturgis (Michigan), where cars were expected to convey them to Indianapolis. The officers chosen by the men, in this first military company, were:

Captain, William Roy
First Lieutenant, George A. Lane
Second Lieutenant, C. M. Burlingham
Third Lieutenant, F. A. Spellman
First Sergeant, J. A. Lamson
Second Sergeant, J. A. Bevington
Third Sergeant, Thomas Burnell
Fourth Sergeant, David Dudley
First Corporal, John F. Varner
Second Corporal, James Rheubottom
Third Corporal, J. A. Hoagland
Ensign, Andrew J. Fair

When they reached Indianapolis, they found companies and regiments organized in sufficient numbers to fill Indiana's quota. The men were informed that they could disband and go into other companies or return home. About thirty joined other companies, and the rest, disheartened, came back. Twenty-one of those who entered the service joined Company "B," 17th Regiment, Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and all, with one exception, were credited to Boone County. The names of these men were: John C. Lamson, Joseph S. Case, Harrison Boyd, Alfred Crawford, William Christ, Joel Crosby, William H. Crosby, Daniel Flynn, Flavius J. George, William P. Hall, Alfred Helper, George M. Helper, Derrick Hodges, Orpheus C. Kenaston, Lewis Randolph, Milton E. Scott, William Wigglesworth, Henry Wirt, Robert White, William Baxter. Nine others, James Denver, M. Randolph, Franklin Haskins, Jack Springsteed, James Hanson, Charles North, Edwin Barnett, James Cassidy, Michael Campbell, joined other regiments.These thirty men were the first volunteers to get in the service from the county. Four of those who returned, George A. Lane, C. M. Burlingame, F. A. Spellman, and J. W. Vesey, went at once to Michigan and enlisted in the 4th Regiment; F. A. Spellman was killed in battle.

Captain Roy remained in Indianapolis and organized a company for three years service. A large number of those who first enlisted rallied to him and the balance necessary for the company were obtained at Ligonier and Goshen. This new company reached Indianapolis July 2, 1861, and was mustered in as Company "A," of the 21st Indiana Regiment, July 20. Those in the company from LaGrange County were: Captain William Roy; Sergeants John A. Bevington, Harvey B. Hall, Lewis Apple; Corporals James R. Rheubottom, Joseph W. Talmage, Alfred Sargeant, George A. Lane; and Privates Alfred E. Charter, Thomas Cole, Benjamin F. Culbertson, Enoch R. Culbertson, Bennice Dryer, Perry O. Everts, Harvey J. Gillette, John Hone, William Harrison, Charles Haskins, Simon Humbert, James Ingram, Jonathan Irish, Thaddeus P. Jackson, Albert N. Johnson, Isaac Knight, Oscar Law, David E. Markham, Luther F. Mason, Leonard N. McLain, Adam W. Meek, James Nash, Harvey Olmstead, William H. Paulus, Enoch Perkins, DeWitt M. Pierce, Andrew J. Ritter, George J. Robbins, Daniel Smith, Peter Smith, Halsey F. Skadden, Edwin R. Temple, George W. Vanarmin, William B. Warren, Ira J. Woodworth.

The latter company had hardly gone before another company was organized. William Dawson, from Indianapolis, came to LaGrange to drill the men. He was chosen captain. The company set out to the Fort Wayne camp on September 13. Before leaving, it was presented with a flag by the patriotic women of Lima. After an eloquent reply on behalf of the company, by the Rev. B. Farrand, Mr. F. C. King made an unexpected presentation from the ladies of LaGrange, of a Testament to each soldier.

The original officers selected by the men were: Captain, William Dawson; First Lieutenant, Ebenezer R. Barlow; Second Lieutenant, Thomas Burnell; Orderly, George Salipaugh. The company was assigned to the 30th Regiment as Company "G". The formation of this company had not been completed before another was begun, under the leadership of William B. Bingham. On October 17, 1861, the company was ready to start for camp at Fort Wayne. A large group of people met at the court house to see them start, and bid them God-speed. Captain Bingham formed his company on Main Street and marched them to the Methodist Church, where in behalf of the company, he thanked the ladies of the community who had so kindly furnished them with the necessities of camp life. The ladies of LaGrange presented each of the soldiers, before starting, with a neat and serviceable blue woolen Zouave jacket, trimmed with velvet. The company was then marched to the south part of town, where wagons were in waiting to convey them on their journey. Quite a number of the citizens accompanied them as far as Wright's Corners, where they took dinner which was furnished by the community. Five or six volunteers were enlisted at that place and Captain Bingham went into camp with a full company. On the road to Fort Wayne, in the wagons, the company held an election, with the results: Captain, William B. Bingham; First Lieutenant, Joseph W. Danseur; Second Lieutenant, Jacob Newman; Orderly Sergeant, Hiran F. King. Captain Bingham returned home for a few days and a meeting was called at the courthouse (October 25) to present a sword to him, which had been purchased by the citizens, as a token of their confidence in him. This company became Company "H" of the 44th Regiment, Indiana Volunteer Infantry.

Soldiers' aid societies, especially by the women, sprung up, for supplying the soldiers with bedding, clothing, and daintier food. On the 1st of November, 1861, a Ladies' Soldiers' Aid Society was regularly organized at LaGrange, adopting a constitution and bylaws, and the ladies in all the townships were requested to form auxillary societies. The officers elected at the meeting were: Mrs. John Kromer, President; Mrs. W. Cathcart, Vice-president; Mrs. Laura Butler, Secretary; Mrs. C. O. Myers, Treasurer; a committee consisting of Mrs. John W. Welch, Mrs. Isaac Carpenter, Mrs. Fred Everhart, Mrs. M. A. H. Menelaus, Miss H. Ford, Miss S. Lougher, and the Directresses – Mrs. F. C. King, Mrs. D. P. Hartman, Mrs. A. Ellison.These ladies of the community made many contributions to the war effort. It is impossible to compute the contributions by the women fpr the comfort of the soldiers – of blankets, clothing, fruits, and hospital stores, almost as impossible as it would be to estimate the value to our country of the effort of these tokens of kind regard upon the weary and disheartened soldier at the front. As a sample of the donations made there were reported by the Ladies' Soldiers' Aid Society, November 28th, 1861, besides membership fees and articles manufactured by the society, two comforts, forty-four pairs of socks, four quilts, four blankets, three sheets, one pair drawers, two pair mittens, and forty-two cuts of yarn, and $10.00 cash. There were other aid societies organized by the women of Lima and Wolcottville. Ref: 51, November & December 1889.

A mass meeting was held at LaGrange on February 22, 1862, in which a long series of resolutions were passed, expressing appreciation of the wisdom and energy of the President, and resolving to ever cherish the memory of the slain on the battle field and of those perishing in the camp or on the might ocean, and expressing sympathy for loyal and oppressed citizens within the limits of the Confederate conspiracy. Ref: 51, November & December 1889.

In July 1862, enlistment was commenced in the county for a company for the 74th regiment. A war meeting was held at LaGrange, July 19, to recognize the perils of the country and pledged every means to aid the government. The commissioners were requested to make appropriations to pay bounties and for necessary expenses of the families of soldiers. There was, at that time, some recruiting being done for the 12th cavalry. The county commissioners made an appropriation of $25 to each volunteer and $1.50 per week for the wife and .75 for each child of the married men who might enlist until their muster-in.

A meeting was held at South Milford, August 14, at which L. D. McGown presided and J. S. Rowe was secretary. This meeting recommended that the county give the same bounty to cavalry volunteers as to infantry. In consequence, a company was formed in eleven days. The officers chosen by the men for their company were: Captain, Jo Rawson Webster; First Lieutenant, W. D. Wildman; Orderly Sergeant, James H. Bigelow. The departure of this company was described as a very affecting scene. At am early hour the volunteers and their friends poured into the town by the hundreds, and at 9 o'clock the streets were thronged with men, women, and children, all with eager, anxious faces, and many indeed were the tears shed. "The heaving breast, the quivering lip, and starting tear of brave men and stout hearts as the last fond embrace was given to the wife and children of the men who had voluntarily consented to sever for a season all the endearing ties and comforts of home for the hardships of the tented field, showed that, severe as the sacrifice might be, yet they dared to do their duty when their country was in danger and required their assistance." A large number of citizens went with the soldiers as far as Wolcottville, where a grand picnic dinner had been prepared. It should not be forgotten that during the war there was no railroad through the county and all the companies which had their rendezvous at Fort Wayne had to march there on foot or be transported by wagon. This company, when reaching Fort Wayne, was made Company "G" of the 88th Regiment, Indiana Volunteers.

The same paper in which the exultant announcement of raising the above company was made contained the procolamation of the president calling for 300,000 more troops and the startling announcement that a draft would be required to raise the men. "The country has done nobly in raising volunteers, but a continuance of that course cannot be carried on without doing great injustice to a certain class upon whose shoulders a part of the burden must be forced, if they will not carry it willingly. No more volunteering in LaGrange"! Harley Crocker stepped forward and called for volunteers for another company.

The machinery for drafting was put in motion. Timothy Fields, of Ontario, was appointed draft commissioner; E. P. Spellman, Provost Marshall; Dr. E. G. White was named medical examiner for the county. The state commissioner, on September 22, 1862, notified the county commissioners that the following numbers would have to be drafted from the townships named, unless made up at once by volunteers: Clearspring, 8; Milford, 7; Eden, 9; VanBuren, 22; total 46. Thirty-one were subsequently drafted, twelve of whom procured substitutes. The most of these men went into the 30th regiment.

Captain Crocker's company was soon filled and departed on September 27th. On the day of their departure, the women of LaGrange treated them to a bountiful dinner, on the grounds of A. S. Case, now a portion of the public square (in 1889). No company left for camp without some token of respect by the patriotic women of the county. For this last company also, the young ladies of LaGrange arranged a "hop," which was well attended, and when the boys reached South Milford, the women of that neighborhood had spread a picnic dinner for them. The officers chosen by the men in this company were: Captain, Harley Crocker; First Lieutenant, John K. Morrow; Second Lieutenant, James W. Boyd. The Company was assigned as Company "C" of the 100th Regiment, Indiana Volunteer Infantry, Ref: 51, November & December, 1889.

1863 was the most discouraging for the Union cause of all the years of the war. Meetings were held at LaGrange for making resolutions. The resolutions denounced the heresy of succession, favored the inauguration of such action honorable to both parties to stop the war, avert universal bankruptcy, and unite all the states "as members of one confederacy", condemmed the Government on suspension of habeas corpus, declaring martial law over states not in rebellion, dismembering Virginia, and expressed sympathy for the soldiers who enlisted to sustain the Constitution and the Union. There was little volunteering this summer. However, LaGrange Countys' quota of men under the draft call of October 17, 1863 was for 135 men, and none had to be drafted because enough enlisted. Ref: 85, V.8, P.192.

The year 1864 opened more cheerfully. Many soldiers returned hone on a month's furlough and aided in increasing enthusiasm for the Union cause.

Lieutenant Daniel Lieb recruited a number of men for the 12th Indiana Cavalry early in this year.

Dr. Edward B. Speed, of LaGrange, an estimable man and good physician, was appointed assistant surgeon for the 44th Indiana Volunteers, in July, and immediately joined that command at Chattanooga, Tennessee. While on the way, he underwent a severe shock from a railroad accident, and was taken sick soon after his arrival. He died in the officers hospital, at Lookout Mountain, September 14.

Under the December call, 1864, LaGrange was asked to contribute 191. The county commissioners, in January, 1865, ordered a county bounty of $400 to be paid for every volunteer who should thereafter be accredited to the county, to be paid in two installments, $200 in fourteen months, and $200 in twenty-eight months, for the payment which county bonds were issued. This action was subsequently endorsed by a mass meeting at LaGrange, February 3, 1865. In addition to this county bounty, the townships raised a large amount to induce volunteers, and save them from the draft.

In February 1865, John H. Caton was commissioned second lieutenant and recruiting officer to raise a company in this county. It was officered by the election of John H. Caton, Captain; William Hobson, First Lieutenant; and A. Bennett, Second Lieutenant. The company became Company "F" of the 152nd Regiment, Indiana Volunteer Infantry. These were the last enlistments in the county for the rebellion.

In April came the joyful news of the surrender of General Lee at Appomattox, which was received with a wonderful joy, and such an abandon of rejoicing and bonfiring and general reckless noisiness followed for a day or two, as has never since seen or felt in this county. Hardly had the people realized what they were rejoicing for, when the news came in the evening of the 14th of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln. Ref: 51, November & December, 1889.

The following are the campaigns in which companies and parts of companies from the county participated:

Company "B," 17th Regiment – Western Virginia, 1861; Kentucky and Tennessee, 1862; siege at Corinth, 1862; pursuit of Bragg, 1862; Rosecrans' campaign in Tennessee, 1863; Chattanooga and East Tennessee, 1863; against Atlanta, 1864; Nelson's Raid, Alabama and Georgia, 1865.

Company "A," 21st Regiment, 1st Heavy Artillery – East Maryland and East Virginia, 1861; against New Orleans, 1862; Baton Rouge and Teche, 1862; against Port Hudson, 1863; West Louisiana, 1863; Red River, 1864; against Mobile, 1865; Louisiana and Gulf Coast, 1865.

Company "G," 30th Regiment – Kentucky, 1861; Tennessee and Kentucky, 1862; siege of Corinth, 1862; pursuit of Bragg, 1862; Reosecrans' campaign in Tennessee, 1863; against Atlanta, 1864; pursuit of Hood, 1864; East Tennessee, 1865; Texas, 1865.

Company "H," 44th Regiment – Western Kentucky, 1861; Tennessee and Kentucky, 1862; siege of Corinth, 1862; pursuit of Bragg, 1862; Rosecrans' campaign in Tennessee, 1863; against Chattanooga, 1863; East Tennessee, 1864 – 1865.

Company "G," 88th Regiment – against Kirby Smith, Kentucky, 1862; Kentucky and Tennessee, 1862; pursuit of Bragg, 1862; Rosecrans' campaign in Tennessee, 1863; against Atlanta, 1864; pursuit of Hood, 1864; Sherman's march to the sea, 1864; through the Carolinas, 1865.

Company "C," 100 Regiment – West Tennessee and North Mississippi, 1862 – 1863; against Vicksburg, 1863; relief of Chattanooga, 1863; East Tennessee, 1863; against Atlanta, 1864; pursuit of Hood, 1864; Sherman's march to the sea, 1864; through the Carolinas, 1865.

Company "C," 129th Regiment – East Tennessee, 1864; against Atlanta, 1864; pursuit of Hood, 1864; North Carolina, 1865.

Company "G," 152nd Regiment – Shenandoah Valley, 1865; West Virginia, 1865.

127th Regiment (12th Cavalry) – Tennessee and North Alabama, 1864 – 1865; against Mobile, 1865; Alabama and Mississippi, 1865.

There were soldiers from the county in the eastern campaigns of the Army of the Potomic, but the records are unobtainable, they being mostly in regiments from other states.

The county furnished 1,475 men for the War of the Rebellion. There were beside these, probably 100 men who were credited to other counties and a number went to Michigan and other states to enroll. There were a number of men who enlisted twice. Estimating the double enlistments at 200 men, would leave 1,375 different men who rendered military service from LaGrange County.

Disease and battle wounds took a terrible toll on the 1,500 men of the county sent off to war. Young men who marched away fired with the excitement of defending the Union came back sobered by the devistation they had seen, determined to pick up their lives as farmers, tradesmen, and businessmen. For a time, there were no gala reunions of veterans. The war experience burned painfully in many memories.

Eventually veterans groups and G. A. R. encampments were organized. The annual veterans picnic became a major event in the county and the "old boys" donned the Union blue on occasion to march in parades. Ref: 100.

After returning from the war, the boys were content to rest and try to forget the nightmares of the past, for a few years. Gradually reunions were held from time to time at South Milford, Salem, Wolcottville, and LaGrange. No records were kept at these meetings.

The Soldiers and Sailors Reunion Association (G. A. R.) was organized August 11, 1894. They selected a grove a half mile east of Mt. Pisgah as a location for their annual picnic. Because of its' proximity to Little Turkey Lake, they named it Lakeside Park.

The men who organized the association were: John M. Caton, Robert Pierce, M. C. Butler, John Grossbeck, Elijah Forbes, Daniel Rassler, and Ralph Ashley. Mr. Ashley was the associations' first secretary. Mr. Forbes was also a close neighbor and at one of the reunions, they staged a sham battle. The boys in blue were on one side of a hill and the boys in grey on the other side. They had procured an old cannon and when Mr. Forbes attempted to light it, it back-fired and shattered one hand. He had lived through Gettysburg – gone with Sherman to the sea – came home without a scratch only to lose a hand in a sham battle.

The meetings were well attended. There were baby racks, cane racks, and places to buy ice-cream, candy, popcorn, and Fred Brady made taffy. The merry-go-round had to have the horses that turned it, changed several times during the day. A speakers stand was built. Benches were placed on the platform where the old soldiers sat. An organ was borrowed from the Lake Bethel Church for the day.

A driven well furnished water and all drank out of two tin cups that hung on a wire attached to the pump's spout. Two little buildings stood over in the southeast corner of the grove. By evening there were well worn paths leading to each one.

Aside from the annual corn school, it was considered the biggest event in the county.

At the close of the day, when most of the folks had gone home, the boys ate supper from their baskets, then built a huge bonfire around which they sat to sing old camp-fire songs and swap stories of their army days.

Among the records of the association is the following resolution written by comrade Elijah Forbes;

Lakeside Park, Indiana
August 16, 1913

The 21st meeting of the ex-soldiers picnic association.

In as much as the management of this association be getting well on in years and that these annual meetings will soon cease, we beg to offer at this meeting the following resolution.

Be it declared that in the event of these annual meetings ceasing to be kept up, that the records of said Mount Pisgah Ex-soldiers Picnic Association consisting of secretary's book, treasurer's book, flags, bunting, and all decorating material and all finance of said association shall become the property of the J. H. Dancer Grand Army Post No. 104 at LaGrange, Indiana. We further ask that the resolution be read and action taken at this meeting by a vote of yeas and nays, and that the result of such vote be put upon the records of this meeting.

(signed) E. H. Forbes

The resolution was adapted. However, by the time the picnic up there was no Grand Army organization either. The American Legion at LaGrange was contracted and they agreed to accept the old flag that had flown at every reunion of the ex-soldiers.

The presentation of the flag was made with this speech given by Mrs. Belden Sadler. "We, the children of the boys in blue who fought so valiantly in the Civil War to insure freedom for all, proudly present this flag to the boys in khaki who fought just a valiantly during the Great World War for peace".

Among the minutes of these G. A. R. meetings were found these lines: Your armes are grounded and your ranks are broken. The brazen bugle sounds the charge no more. We're waiting orders till the word is spoken, to join our comrades on the other shore. Ref: 100.

In January 1914, there was only one Grand Army of the Republic Post for LaGrange County veterans and there were thirty members. Thirty years ago LaGrange County had four Grand Army of the Republic organization posts: J. H. Danseur Post at LaGrange, Charles Tyler Post at Wolcottville, Ed Temple Post at South Milford, and J. M. Drake Post at Lima. Thirteen hundred and seventy-five men enlisted from the county to serve in the War of the Rebellion. Of these, one hundred and ninety-nine were killed or died in the service. Ref: 51, Jan.22, 1914.

In 1915, The LaGrange Grand Army of the Republic, J. H. Danseur Post moved their meeting room from the Show building to the court house, immediately west of the court room, heretofore used by lawyers and witnesses as a consultation room. Ref: 51, Sept.30, 1915.

In 1916, there were twenty-nine Civil War Veterans in LaGrange County, their ages ranged from sixty-eight to eighty-two years old. Ref: 51, May 4, 1916.

In 1917, there were twenty-seven Civil War Veterans left in LaGrange County. Ref: 51, May 10, 1917.

* No82 8440 lbs. S.C.L. * Fort Pitt. Pa. 1865 stamped around the muzzle face.

The gun has (2) vents.

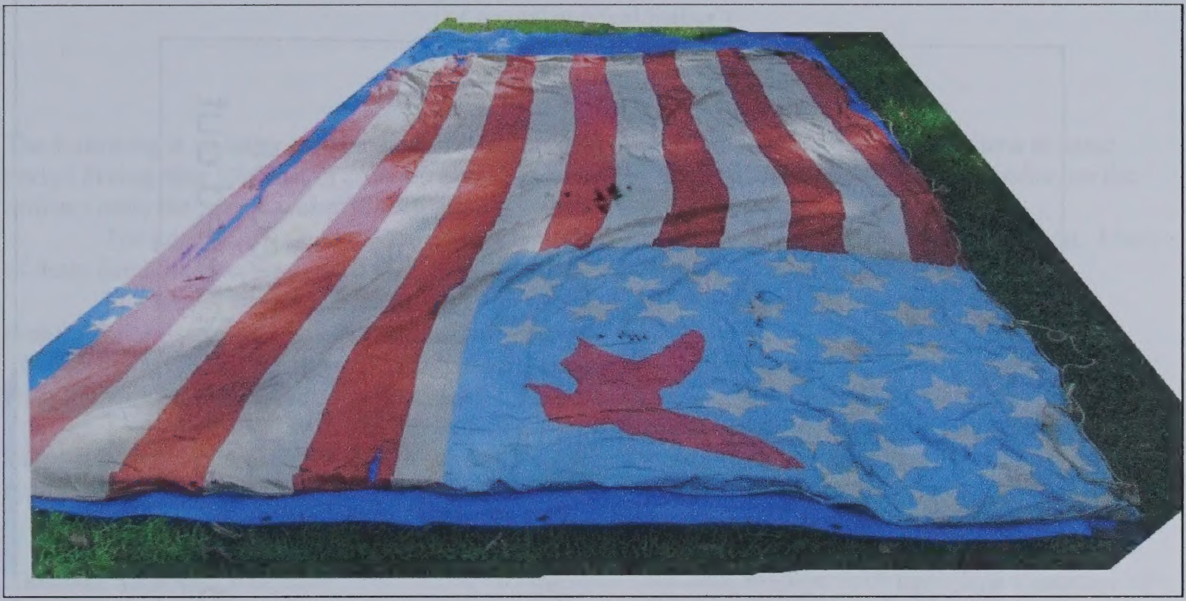
With a 10 pound powder charge, it fired a 64 pound solid shot 3,800 yards or about 2 miles.

It was used in fortresses around the seacoast and on ships.

The county would have acquired it from the Government after the war simply by requesting a gun . I have not found the acquisition records on this gun, so it is unknown when the county received it.

Since it was cast in 1865, it may not have actually "seen the elephant".

CIVIL WAR FLAG MADE AT WOLCOTTVILLE, INDIANA



The dimensions of the flag are: 14 feet long by seven feet six inches wide. It is made of linen.

At Wolcottville there was a seminary which was built in 1852 along with a boarding house. The seminary was a Protestant school which was designed for females but some men attended also. The governess was Miss Susan Griggs.

The flag was made at the school, apparently in November of 1861. Most of the stars have sayings written on them along with being signed by people. I presume these names are of the persons who worked on the flag. The bird is an eagle and the writings on the stars are of a pro war – pro Union nature. There are 33 stars on the flag. I imagine the flag was flown at the seminary.

The flag was donated to the LaGrange County Historical Society by Ralph Miller of Woodruff, Indiana. Woodruff is about three miles from Wolcottville.

PERSONS FROM LAGRANGE COUNTY WHO SERVED IN THE CIVIL WAR
April 14, 1861 - April 12, 1865
(an alphabetical listing)
(including the units they were in)

The following is an index of the names of the people who lived in LaGrange County, Indiana at some period during their lifetime, or who are buried in LaGrange County. Also included in this index are the military units the person was affiliated with.

The pages following the index pages include the information available about each person. Many of them lived in the county when the war began and many moved to the county after the war.

Much information is available in the service and pension records of the men, but it is cost prohibitive to obtain the records for all of the men.

There is some conflicting and confusing information about some of the men due to different information from the various sources.

There are probably more men that served from the county, but these are all I have found so far. There is a copy of the Grand Army of the Republic record book, and if the other three G. A. R. record books from the county could be found, certainly a lot more service men's names would be found.
